

POLICEMAN RISKS LIFE ON ICE TO SAVE SMALL BOY

Crawls Over Park Lake and Rescues Little Chap Just in Time.

Another heroic rescue was marked up to-day on the records of the Arsenal station to the credit of Patrolman Daniel J. Hogan, a veteran of the Central Park squad. Hogan pulled six-year-old Joseph Midline of No. 222 East Seventy-first street out of the inlet of the park lake last night just in time to save the little fellow's life.

Playmates were on the bridge over the inlet, near Seventy-second street. Young Midline climbed on the railing and fell over, landing on the ice.

At the point where the boy tumbled the ice was very thin. It did not break immediately, but his struggles spread cracks which widened into an opening through which he slid into the water.

Hogan was on duty some distance from the scene of the accident. He heard the cries of the children on the bridge and hurried to them. Time was lost while the policeman went on the bridge and looked down into the lake. Making his way off the bridge and down to the shore, Hogan, who is big and heavy, dropped lengthwise on the ice and edged his way along to where the boy was desperately hanging to the edge of the hole. The ice sagged under Hogan's weight, but he managed to get the boy to shore. By that time the little fellow was unconscious.

Hogan carried him to a shelter and summoned an ambulance from Presbyterian Hospital. Three hours of hard work by Dr. Latin was required to restore young Midline. His companions had run away and his parents were almost distracted when he was taken home in an ambulance close to midnight. They had been unable to locate him, but had become of him, but had heard that he had been drowned.

HIS CELLAR AEROPLANE SOARS INTO A CELL.

James Robinson Was Breaking Altitude Record When Police Got Him.

The barograph on James Robinson's aeroplane showed that he had beaten the altitude record at 7:30 o'clock this morning when a policeman arrived in a full-rigged alrship and took him to the West One Hundredth street station. Robinson had got his craft safely back into the hangar in the furnace-room of the Irving Arms, No. 222 Riverside Drive, when Mrs. Charles Nelson, wife of the superintendent, notified the authorities. It was all in the poor man's mind.

The steam gauge was his barograph, the cabin his hangar, the shovels his planes and the ashtray his propeller. The entire heating apparatus was run by air and the apartment-house was about to soar heavenward when the furnaceman stepped into the aeroplane of the Police Department and flew to the One Hundredth street hangar. There Dr. Ferguson of the J. Hood Wright Hospital diagnosed the case as one of aeronautical mania. Robinson will be sent to the insane ward at Bellevue.

KILLED ON RAILROAD TRACK.

Newspaper Compositor Struck by Train Near Home in Singac, N. J.

Arthur T. Yates, a compositor in the office of a New York newspaper, was killed on the Erie Railroad track near his home at Singac, N. J., early to-day. He was on his way home.

Leaving the train at the Singac station, he walked down the track toward his house, taking a short cut used by most of the people in his neighborhood. It is supposed that the noise of the passing of the train from which he had alighted prevented him from hearing the coming of a train from the other direction. His body was mangled by several trains before it was discovered.

Police Captain Kane Retires.

Police Captain James Kane, who was a very important inspector in the department in the time of Chief Devory, retired from the force to-day. Kane had been a policeman since 1880. He was made a captain in 1890 and in the same year promoted to the rank of inspector. In the days of the Croker-Carroll supremacy Kane was known as "Johnny Carroll's man." He lost the rank of inspector when the Bingham demolition law went into effect, but he continued to draw an inspector's pay.

DEPARTMENT BUYERS FRIDAY BARGAIN SALES

Now for the Banner Bargain Day of all to-morrow. As we exceed all low price levels of each week on each Friday Bargain Day through the year so will each department buyer to-morrow offer his greatest values of this tremendously successful sale. Come—we print here but a few of the attractions. The Evening Journal contains news of the other sales, yet many of the not advertised Specials afford the greatest economies to shoppers here to-morrow.

Here's a Taffeta $1.88
Petticoat at

You'll say they are worth double the price the minute you see them. Taffeta Petticoats, in black and handsome selection of colors. Made with full flounces, prettily trimmed with clusters of tucks and finely tailored throughout. The quality silk in these garments would cost you more than what we are asking for the entire $1.88 made garment. Only....

Sincerely,
Yours, Wm. J. Siegel
